Carnival Plans for Week of February 15 in Hands of Dealers' Committee.

The first annual pure food exposition Center Market dealers will be during of February 15. The exhibition of foodwand methods of advantageous shopping by the housewife will be he most elaborate enterprise in which Washington merchants have ever en-

The purpose of the exposition is to educate the public in the advantages that result from visiting Center Maryet, the dealers in which declare they are prepared to offer the trade of the District quality, quantity, and variety of goods not procurable elsewhere. The pure food exposition will be participated in by the sixty-six dealers in the market, many of whom already have started plans for converting their stalls into "palaces of sweet and edibles" in which to welcome the housewives of which to welcome the housewives of the District.

The exposition will take on the shape of a carnival, with the United States Marine Band giving ten special concerts during the week, and with various establishments dispensing samples of soods handled and presenting to the visitors souvenirs of popular brands of soods.

Special Decorations.

The interior and exterior decorations of Center Market will be more elaborate than ever before attempted by the association of dealers. The interior will be draped with flags and unting, with evergreen streamers and colored lights. The minaret towers on each wing of the mammoth building will be lighted and specially decorated for the expo-

The committee in charge of the plans for the event includes forty of the 666 dealers and representatives of the Washington Market Company. John H. Buscher, of the J. H. Buscher market, is chairman of the dealers' committee, while Edward O. Whitford, president of the market company, is at the head of the committee of owners.

The market will be open in exposition attire every day of the week from February 15 to February 20, exclusive, from 5 a. m. until the evening closing hours, and on four nights, the large building will be open to visitors during the afterdinner hours. An interesting controversy has arisen as a result of the construction of the New York's fighting tops. These masts, built of steel, basketwork tashion, are in high favor with American naval experts, although certain eminent foreign authorities hold that they are practically worthless for practical use on the line of battle.

In wartime machine guns have been placed in towers like these and have been found highly effective against submarines and torpedo-boats. As observation towers and aids in range-finding the masts are, of course, invaluable.

Envoy to Pope Opposed

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The London Council of Protestant Societies, representing sixteen different organizations and other bodies in sympathy with it, though not affiliated with the council, have sent to the prime minister. Sir Edward Grey, and the leaders of the opposition, a resolution, unanimously agreed to, which reads, in part: "We strongly condemn the action of the government in advising His Majesty the King to appoint and dispatch a special envoy to Pope Benedict XV. They condemn and reject the specious and unsatisfactory excuse set forth in the White Paper as reasons for the dispatch of the envoy, and they hereby declare their intention publicly to oppose to the utmost of their power in such manner as time and circumstances may require, the continuance of this mission."

WAR'S EFFECTS ARE FOR CRIPPLES' SAKE FELT BY Y. M. C. A.

Throws Up Job When Ordered to Secretaries, Who Formerly Met 3,000 Immigrants a Month, Stop Helping Deformed Children to School. Now See Only 800.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Tom Williams has been looking after school children, many of them cripples, ever since he joined the police force, twenty-five years ago. He's not going to quit his little friends now, even if his superior does order it.

So when an order of Chief Gleason directed Thomas J. Williams, patrolman of the twenty-eighth precinct, to report at his station for duty, Thomas J. Williams sat down and wrote a little letter to the chief. This is what he workers formerly met and twenty in the warring countries.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The European war has touched the people in an unusual quarter—the Y. M. C. A. In time of peace abroad, it is customary for the accretaries of this organisation to spend a great deal of time with the young men between fifteen and forty-five who come to this country.

Normally, 32 per cent of all the immigrants is between those ages. But the warring countries, of course, are not permitting able-bodied men to leave followed in the lead of the others and the percentage has been greatly cut down.

J. Williams sat down and wrote a little letter to the chief. This is what he wrote:

"I have been on the force long enough to draw a pension. I've been looking after the children ever since I was on the force. They've needed some one all the time, and they still need him. Please accept my resignation beginning with today. I will take my pension and stick with the kids."

This may not have made a hit with Chief Gleason, who is complaining that he hasn't enough men, but it was a big thing for from eighteen to twenty-five crippled children attending the Spaulding school.

They have depended upon Tom for ten years now to carry them down the steps of their own porches and out to the bus which brought them to the school, to carry them upstairs into the wheel chairs, and to take them back home safely at night.

Not one ever has been durt. Tom is willing to retige on that record. The children tell other things, too.

Tom's district is from Wood street to California avenue and from Taylor street to within a block of the Bridewell. Not all his charges are children of prosperous parents. Many of them, in fact, are of poor families. They must be fed at school, so Tom got some West Side merchants to deliver to him regularly some nice cookies, pies, rich milk. Ittle pure sugar stick candy and such other edibles as tickle the youthrul palate.

Tom denies he ever paid for fhem, but the children have their own suspicions.

Tom denies he ever paid for them, but the children have their own suspicions. Anyway, Tom has grandchildren of his own, and recollection of his own childhood and—well, he fed 'em.

So when the expected tears came from the crippled little ones when the policemen were taken from their busses, those shed in Tom's bus were for joy. The Hibbard bus will carry Tom as the crippled children's guardian as long as he is able to go.

In addition Tom will continue to "stick around" the school all day to see whether he can't ease the physical strain a bit for some of the more helpless of his charges.

And Tom is happy, for he said.

"What's the job worth if I can't be with the kids? The kids for mine."

Supreme Court Issues Order Superseding Death Sentence.

A formal order staying the execution of the death sentence on Leo M. Frank, convicted of the murder of Mary Phagan, an Atlanta (Ga.) factory girl, has been issued by the Supreme Court.

The granting of the appeal to the Supreme Court to Frank in his habeas corpus proceedings was regarded as an automatic stay, but it is understood Sheriff C. Wheeler Mangum, of Fulton county, Georgia, desired the formal order, which specifically states that the execution of the death sentence shall be stayed and superseded until further order by the Supreme Court.

The SECOND INSTALLMENT of the Absorbing Testimony in the trial of the former Brooklyn boy, convicted in Atlanta of the murder of Mary Phagan, will be printed NEXT SUNDAY evening in

THE WASHINGTON TIMES

The next installment will take up the testimony from the point it ended in last Sunday's issue, with the introduction for the first time of the name of Jim Conley, one of the suspects in the investigation.

THE WASHINGTON TIMES, in order that the public may form its own opinions in this extraordinary murder case, is publishing the official evidence taken from the records at the trial.

William J. Burns, detective, spent two months in Atlanta investigating the mystery. Probably no man is better acquainted with the innumerable phases and ramifications of the case. His comment on the testimony will accompany each installment.
